Appraisal: For tax deductions, an appraisal is generally required for any household item for which the value exceeds $500 and the item is not in good usable condition or better. Generally, appraisals are required for all items valued in excess of $5,000 other than publicly traded securities and inventory. Certain groups of items valued collectively over $5,000 are required to be appraised for tax deductions.

IRS Form 8283: You must attach IRS Form 8283 to your federal income tax return if you are required to have an appraisal. Generally, we must complete a section of your Form 8283. We must have a copy of your original acknowledgement receipt to complete your form.
